MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

On behalf of the Board of Directors of the Oklahoma City Philharmonic, I am proud to offer this report on the 26th season. My time as President of the Board allowed me to experience the many ways the orchestra touches our community. As always, Maestro Levine and the musicians of the orchestra were committed to presenting excellent music.

The Philharmonic’s core programs, including the Classics, Pops and Discovery Series, made an impact and created lifelong memories for audiences. The Philharmonic was also active within the larger community, performing with Kelli O’Hara and Ted Sperling at Armstrong Auditorium, at Oklahoma City Community College’s Arts Festival, at a special event at the National Cowboy and Western Heritage Museum with Kristin Chenoweth, and, of course, at the very popular Red, White and Boom! concert at State Fair Park. A special presentation of Video Games Live introduced the Phil to new audiences and demonstrated the orchestra’s versatility.

The joint education programs of the Oklahoma City Philharmonic and the Oklahoma City Orchestra League impacted our community. This year, thanks to a grant from the Kirkpatrick Foundation, our education conductor was able to visit high schools and universities across the metro to lead clinics and master classes. Teachers and students valued the hands-on experiences this new outreach project brought to their schools.

Clearly, the community continues to support the joy of music provided by the Oklahoma City Philharmonic. This support makes it possible for the orchestra to inspire and serve thousands from all age groups and enhance the quality of life in Oklahoma City, and I’m grateful to have had the opportunity to be a part of the orchestra’s success this season as President of the Board.

John Higginbotham
MESSAGE FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Our 2014-2015 season was another undeniable success. Maestro Joel Levine and the orchestra continued to inspire audiences through a variety of concerts and community programs. The Classics Series featured beloved masterworks and brought famed guest artists such as violinist Simone Lamsma and pianist Jean-Yves Thibaudet to perform at the Civic Center with the Philharmonic, and audiences were moved by Peter Boyer’s Ellis Island: The Dream of America that paired narration and slide projection with orchestral music. Always a family favorite, The Christmas Show starred Tony Award-winning singer and actor Beth Leavel and featured spectacular sets and an unforgettable cast of singers, dancers and musicians. Other highlights included An Evening with Jason Alexander and Pixar in Concert, to name a few. And the Discovery Family Series experienced its best-selling concert to date with Knights and Princesses, a performance that filled the concert hall to the mezzanine with happy children and families.

I’m honored to report that our twenty-sixth season ended with a breakeven budget. To our many loyal patrons that purchased tickets and to our generous donors including individuals, corporations and foundations—thank you for your support. You are the reason the Philharmonic is able to achieve so much, year after year. Thanks to Maestro Levine and the musicians of the orchestra for their tireless dedication to inspiring musical performances. I salute the Oklahoma City Orchestra League and its volunteers for their hard work on behalf of the orchestra and music education. I’m grateful, too, for the Philharmonic’s Board of Directors, for the Associate Board that reaches out to new and younger patrons, and to the staff. All of this is because of you—the myriad individuals in our community devoted to the success of the Oklahoma City Philharmonic that make it all possible.

Many thanks.
